

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A simplified hinging device and a temple bar thereby obtained, particularly for eyeglass frames, comprising a prevalently metallic termination, which is widened, contoured, holed and bent according to a U shape, which engages, by means of a pivoting screw or one or more projections, another prevalently metallic termination, which is widened, contoured and holed, free to rotate about the axis of the aforesaid screw, pivot point or projection (for the sake of simplicity, only the screw embodiment shall be described herein